

Sending Students Home From School

- Students will be sent home for:
 - Fever >100°
 - Vomiting (unless cause can be attributed as non-illness related)
 - Clear indication of conjunctivitis (pink eye). This is sometimes confused with allergies, so it can be difficult to determine whether a student needs to go home. Crusty eye lids and/or redness and conjunctival swelling in only one eye are indications of conjunctivitis, not allergies.
 - Ringworm on the scalp only. If ringworm is suspected on the body, it should be covered and parents will be notified. Student can stay in school.
 - Scabies, until treatment is completed and doctor approves readmission.
 - Unexplained rash, especially if accompanied by other viral symptoms. Parents will be contacted to discuss any known causes to help make this decision.
 - Three or more episodes of watery stools (unless cause is identified as non-illness related).
 - Unable to do work/participate in school due to feeling ill, after attempts made to rest/rehydrate, etc.
 - Lice that is untreated after previously notifying parents that treatment is needed.
